Etta Mae Pendleton Dittrich Bertelsen

Introduction

This is the story of William Kappen Pendleton and Francis Adaline Scoggin Pendleton and their family on the farm in Boggy Community.

I am Etta Mae Pendleton Dittrich Bertelsen, daughter of Homer and Gina Lund Pendleton.

My family moved to the Little House on the farm in 1915. I was born in 1917.

In 1921, Grandma moved to New Mexico. Our family moved into the Big House and lived there until 1928 when Grandma returned.

We then moved east 1 1/2 miles from the Pendleton Farm. I lived there until 1936. My family continued to live there until my Grandma could no longer care for herself, then they moved in with her.

Grandma died in 1946. At that time my father bought the farm. I have walked or ridden horseback on every foot of that farm and a good part of Boggy Community.

Gene and Carol Pendleton have spent much time compiling and researching the history of the Pendleton and Scoggin families, and with the help of Janice Wallace and Max Wallace, plus what little help I could contribute, she put together a book labeled Pendleton.

Carol was good enough to give me a copy of the book. I thought it important to make this available to all family members. I have placed the book in the Archives called the Bosque County Collection. This book can be read or copied at will. It is located at 101 N. Main, P.O. Box 534, Meridian TX 76665.

Remembering Grandma by Etta Mae

Many articles have been written about W.K. and F.A. Most of them, including the obituary, have them living in Meridian and Clifton for a time.

I had a little trouble with this since in all my time with my grandmother and dad I was led to believe all of Grandma's children, except Rady, were born on the Pendleton farm. Rady was born in Hamilton.

W.K.'s father, George W. Pendleton, came to Texas in about 1851 with his first wife and one daughter, Miriam T., who was born in Arkansas in July or August 1850.

He first settled in Houston County, Texas.

In about 1852, another daughter, Emma Ann, was born. In 1855, William Kapper Pendleton was born. Sometime in 1858-1859 they lived near Cedar Hills, Dallas County. G.W.'s first wife died when W. K. was approximately two years old.

He married a second time and had a son, Lewis, born about August 1859. In 1862, his second wife died, and his son, Lewis, we believe, died also. He then moved to Tarrant County near Fort Worth.

G.W. married his third wife, Eliza Caroline Sorrey in 1862-1863. In 1865, they moved to Bosque County with children (Miriam T., Emma Ann, and William Kapper).

In 1867, George wrote his brother, Lewis, a letter stating he was living on the Kuykendall land survey on Neils Creek, six miles from the headwaters.

Here three more children were born: Volley born in 1866, Clary born in 1869- who apparently died sometime between 1870 & 1880, and Henry born in 1870.

These details were obtained by Carol Pendleton from George W.'s 1867 letter, his Mexican War Pension papers and census records.

We found no record of land purchased by G.W. until 1871 when G.W. bought two tracts of land with each costing $120. Records show that this land was located on the Kuykendall deed survey on Neils Creek, later known as Boggy Branch. This is where W.K. grew up.

W.K. was married in 1877 to F.A. Scoggin. Her family was living near Jonesboro, Texas. They were married in Hamilton County and lived there until late 1880 or early 1881. Their oldest son, Rady, was born there. We have no records as to when they moved, but if all the children were born on the Pendleton farm as my grandmother said, they moved to Bosque County on the Hubball survey in 1880-81 joining his father's place on the southwest corner and west side of Boggy Branch.

Their daughter, Etta, was born in November 1881 on the Pendleton farm.

It was quite common practice in this new state of Texas that settlers would settle on unoccupied land, pay taxes, and if the owner did not claim it in seven years, they could put a claim on the land. I understand this law is still on the books. Most times the owners would show up in the fifth and sixth years. Such was the case in 1886. L.L. House, representing the Hubball family, put a judgment against W.K.. W.K. presented himself in court, and the two settled for $487.50 for the 302 acres, all in the Hubball survey.

This is also what I believe his father had done in 1865. The owner on his land settled out of court. We know he was living on the Kuykendall deed survey in 1867-8 according to his letter written to his brother, Lewis. He did not purchase the land until 1871.

Many people have written that W.K and F.A lived in Meridian because they were listed in the Meridian 1900 census precinct no. 1. This is not what F.A had told me. I began to search. How could this be? I scrolled down the census and found all Boggy residents listed along with W.K and F.A. I found the answer in The History of Education in Bosque county by Alvin Bronstad. In 1884 Bosque County tried to go from the old community system to school districts or precincts. In the old community system the families of Boggy Community west of Boggy Branch went to Rohne school located on the Rohne farm northeast of the Pendleton farm. Families east of Boggy Branch went to Shell Rock School located on the Bakke Farm. The proposed change caused quite a furor. Residents rejected the added taxes and choose to continue the old system. By 1900 census the lines had not become rigid. All schools west of Meridian and the Bosque river were put in precinct no. 1. The precinct lines did not become rigid until 1907.

In 1880, the Methodist Church was organized in a small building joining the Boggy Cemetery to the north. It also became a school, the first Boggy school. Later the Boggy school moved, and all the schools consolidated first on the Fort Farm and then later on the Lund land where the building still stands. In 1938, they consolidated with Cranfills Gap.

There were 302 acres of land on the Pendleton farm.

In 1887, Granddad sold 100 acres on the northwest corner to Hills Brothers leaving 202+acres and this was never sold until 1946 when Grandma sold the land to my dad.

W.K. bought and sold several pieces of land. In 1889, he bought land in the Louis Van Zachareas survey (738 acres with his neighbors Ellington, Ford, Yarbrough, Hoff, and Head). He paid $166.61 for his share according to vares (looks like 125-150 acres).

In 1894, G.P. Robertson filed suit against the group. They evidently had bought a bogus deed, not uncommon for the times.

They lost the suit, but they appealed and again the court ruled for the plaintiff. They had to forfeit the land and pay court costs. (That's why today we have title insurance.)

They didn't lose it all since they had had the land for about five years. They might have run horses on it (common due to the Civil War and Mexican War).

I, Etta Mae Pendleton Dittrich Bertelsen, was born in Bosque County, Texas on the Pendleton farm in Boggy Community, August 23, 1917 to Gina and Homer Pendleton in what I have described as the Little House.

I want to relate to you details I remember about my grandma F.A. and granddad W.K. Pendleton and later, George M. Pendleton, my grandma's second husband, cousin to W.K., her first husband.

My grandma was born Frances Adaline Scoggin in October 1860 (?). I believe in Morgan County, Missouri (some believe in Pilot Point, Texas) to David D. Scoggin of Tennessee and Mary Jane Lacey Reed.

They later settled in Hamilton County near Jonesboro, Texas.

David and Mary Jane had seven children together (both had children by previous spouses too).

Details are in The Pendletons by Carol in Meridian (Bosque County Collection, Meridian Texas).

Granddad W.K. was born to George Washington Pendleton and Nancy Jane Moore originally from Tennessee. They came to Texas in 1851 and settled in Houston County, Texas where W.K. was born in 1855.

They later settled on the Kuykendall survey on Neils Creek (later known as Boggy Branch), address Norway Hills. (Details by Carol in The Pendletons, Meridian, Texas)

W.K. and F.A. were married in Hamilton, Texas in 1877.

My belief is that they moved on the Hubball survey in Boggy Community in late 1880, early 1881. Their oldest son, Rady, was born in Hamilton County.

Although I did not have the privilege of knowing my Grandpa W.K. (he died in 1910 before I was born), there are some things to be said about his family and what I, along with my siblings or Faye Wallace, were not told about his family, his father, or his five siblings. He had two full sisters, one half sister, and two half brothers. They all grew up in Boggy Community just northeast of W.K.s and F.A.s farm joining on the NE corner on the east side of the Boggy Branch.

His father, G.W. moved from the Boggy farm in 1887 according to pension records - his address was Clifton, Texas. We do not know if he left the Boggy farm at that time. We know the Norway Hills post office closed about that time giving them a Clifton address.

We know he was in Runnels County in 1891, and he is buried at Glen Cove in Coleman County, Texas along with his wife and son, Henry.

I cannot explain why we were never told about W.K.s family. I firmly believe there was a breakdown between Grandma and Granddad, and his father.

There are three possibilities that I can think of:

1. G.W. was very vocal in his letters about his dislike of the Methodist faith,
2. Grandma was a very devout Methodist. Rumor has it that G.W.s wife was unkind to W.K.
3. Volly, G.W's son, was a little on the wild side and had to serve some time in prison. Did Grandma want to separate her boys from him?

The above may not be anywhere near the reason we were not told about our relatives ("Speculation at Best").

We will never know the why, but I regret we were not told about our great grandfather. No one seems to have a picture of him (George Washington Pendleton).

My father was 19 years old when his father died in 1910. He and his younger brothers ran the farm until 1913. My father married and moved on the Tindall farm. He returned to the farm sometime between 1914-15 when Uncle Cecil married, and my father and mother moved into the Little House.

I was born in 1917 in the Little House first built by W.K. approximately 500 yards to the west of the Boggy Branch.

Grandma and Grandpa W.K. lived in this house until they built the larger house on what is now FM 219. I do not know what year the larger house was built, but sometime around 1905.

Granddad died in 1910. I was not born until 1917, so I know very little about my granddad W.K. He died from cancer on his face.

My knowledge of Grandma begins in 1920-21 when I was 3 1/2 to 4 years old.

I want to tell you first about her personal person.

She was not beautiful, but was a real classy lady.

She was about 5'3"-5'4" tall, had brown hair and blue eyes. She was not fat and not thin. She kept herself very neat at all times with clean starched dresses. She wore beads (necklace) when she dressed up, plus powder and rouge. The rouge was on her cheeks, above her eyes and on her chin. Her hair was quite thin, but she would sometimes wear hair buns in her hair with decorative combs. She was very firm in her convictions and a dedicated Methodist.

She practiced tough love before the sociologists and psychologists wrote books about it.

She was a hard worker, a wonderful cook and seamstress.

Aunt Pearl (Uncle Otis's wife) liked to tell this story: when you visited you would wake at 4:00 in the morning and hear her grinding coffee, and you had better get up because breakfast would be ready in the hour, and you were expected to be there. We were living in the Little House, and in 1920-21 my parents owned a black Model T Touring Ford Top but open on the sides. We were invited for dinner for many of Grandma's family Sunday dinners. Dad had gone ahead, and Mom and I and my siblings were to come later in the car. We had to cross a little ravine that was very rough. I fell out - Mom forgot to slow down. I was not badly hurt, but I did get a lot of attention. I got to eat at the first table - whoop de doo! The men ate at the first tables, then the women, then the kids, so you understand why eating at the first table made a big impression on me. The Sunday family dinners included all her family, the Methodist pastor and wife, and Dr. Plunkey and his wife - the church song leader. The dinner was after church on Sunday.

Grandma's Sunday dinner was always fried chicken, peach pie, and vegetables that were raised in her garden. She always had white potatoes since she could keep them the year around. She made cream gravy and biscuits too. The potatoes were kept under the house where it was cool in the summer and did not freeze in the winter.

Peach pies were made from dried peaches. There was a peach tree behind the house that produced bushels of peaches about 1 1/2-2 inches in diameter at the most - they were small but long. She would not let any go to waste. She would cut them up with their peels on, remove the seeds, and then my siblings would spread them out on top of the porch on a sheet to dry. We would take them down when it rained.

Biscuits - a pinch here and a dash there. I never saw her measure anything.

The table had a starched white damask tablecloth. She would put paper under the kids' plates. Many times she would wipe our hands before we finished eating. We had to sit there until everyone was finished eating. Never heard anyone say, "I don't like that." We knew what the answer would be. "Eat it anyway and clean your plate."

The second thing I remember about Grandma was when we were still in the Little House and my siblings would not let me play in their playhouse. This playhouse was in the oak thicket west of the Little House. This playhouse was not a structure but was lined with white pebbles, each room laid out. I went in crying to tell mom they would not let me play in their playhouse. Mom said, "If you will stop crying, I will tell you something but don't tell the other kids. We are going to move into the Big House." She didn't tell me why. But all I needed to hear was "we're going to move into the Big House." Well, I just had to tell Opal and H.D. that I knew something they didn't know.

In 1921, we did move into the big house. Grandma was going to New Mexico to marry George M. Pendleton, a cousin of her first husband, William K. She waited to remarry until all her children were grown up. They were both widowed. George had at least eight children, and there may have been more that died.

She lived in New Mexico until 1928 when she came back to Texas and the farm. We continued to live in the Big House until my Dad could make other arrangements (we ended up moving to my Grandpa Lund's house). Grandma lived in the Little House during this time.

This is the time I became reacquainted with my grandmother all over again. Days, she would come over to the Big House. Nights, she would return to the Little House, and I would spend the night with her.

I need to explain the Big House. It was at best 2000 square feet including 392 feet of porch. The Little House was at best 800 square feet and had only three rooms and a small porch. Grandma gave birth to seven of her children here.

Norinne Fort, in her writing about Boggy Community in the book about Bosque County, said W.K. and Fannie had built a log cabin. I have no knowledge of that and never saw any sign of it. I have been on nearly every foot that land either on horseback or walking. I think Norinne had this confused with G.W.s place. I'm sure he lived in a log cabin.

I checked history and found that there was a lumberyard owned by B.W. Kidd and financed by Paulson in 1878 in Clifton, Texas.

There was a small barn with a wooden corral with a concrete horse trough. It had a windmill, but we had to hand pump our water. The windmill no longer worked when we lived there.

As Grandma and I would walk back to the Little House she would break off limbs of a sweet bush (can't remember the name). When we arrived at the house, she would cut the limbs in about 5-6 inch lengths and had me chew on one end of the stick. She then would dip it in a salt and soda mixture and had me brush my teeth. She knew how important it was to brush my teeth because she wore dentures.

I had my boys brush their teeth with salt and soda until they went off to college.

After dark, we would take our bath in the concrete horse trough that was no longer used, and that she had carefully cleaned. (I think she lived there during the summer - I don't remember wearing a coat as we walked back and forth and I don't think the water was cold.)

Supper was biscuits, with butter and syrup, or preserves with milk. Her biscuits were so good.

My father had now made arrangements to move to my mother's father's place (Chris Lund) 1½ miles east of the Pendleton farm. This is where my mother grew up.

In 1928, my grandma's second husband, George Mason Pendleton, came, and he and Grandma moved into the Big House.

There were some real big changes.

Some of Grandma's children objected to her having married. They did not graciously receive her new husband.

My parents did not object so we spent lots of time with them.

Grandma continued to have her Sunday dinners with all the kids, the doctor, and the Methodist preacher.

Grandpa G.M. did not mind too much because he would line up work that he needed help with (windmill, plows, harnesses to be mended, animals to be doctored, whatever was needed), and Sunday afternoon they would work.

Grandpa G.M. was a bit different from our families; he was a cowboy from the West.

The number one thing he did when arrived was to buy a riding pony. Named him Jim after his good friend Jim White who had discovered the Carlsbad Caverns. He said he had ridden by the caverns many times with White, and that White begged him to go into the cave with him, but said he declined. I met Mrs. Jim White and asked if she knew George Pendleton. She said, "Oh my dear, he was my husband's best friend." She gave me a book about her husband.

He told many stories about knowing Billy the Kid. I wish I had paid more attention. He had a gun he said the Kid had given him.

Before breakfast every morning he would feed Jim. After breakfast he would saddle him. Jim wore the saddle all day. Many people criticized G.M. but that made him a little more determined.

He taught all of his animals to lead (follow him on a rope) even his bull, and if they were a little stubborn he would tie the lead rope to the saddle horn and let Jim lead them, some times all day. It was interesting to watch. Granddad had trained Jim well.

Grandpa G.M. walked with a limp and a cane. He wore a mustache. He was quite tall and very thin with extremely long feet. He smoked a pipe and smoked Prince Albert tobacco.

Grandpa G.M. was not afraid of work. This was during the Depression. Times were hard, but he always seemed to make things go.

Two of the things I would like to mention. I told you he smoked Prince Albert. It came in a red flat can. He opened the cans, flattened them out, and when he would have enough he lined the cracks in the barn that had been built with green lumber 1x12s (because the lumber was green it would shrink when it dried and left about a 3/4 inch crack). He not only lined his barn but also his smokehouse and outhouse.

The fences were getting bad and there was a thicket of sumac on the north side of the house. He cut limbs and made staves and repaired the fence with sumac and bailing wire. He put the staves about 18 inches apart. A jackrabbit could hardly get through (there was wire between the staves).

Grandpa G.M. did have some problems. Well, I'm not sure they were his problems or were Aunt Etta's and Aunt Geneva's. They really did not like each other. The more they criticized him the more he would taunt them.

He never came into the house with his work clothes on. He would remove them, and his shoes and socks, and eat lunch in his BVDs. This really did strike a nerve with Aunt Etta and Aunt Geneva. Sometimes Grandma would join in and call him "you old Puke."

Someone told him that to cure a corn on his little toe he should just drop a drop of carbolic acid on it - he almost removed his little toe. He liked to play the fiddle (he called it). My dad could play any instrument so he would play the guitar. Sometimes we could even get Dad to play the organ then the house would rock, literally. Dad was left-handed and also had a left thumb that didn't move. Didn't matter. Looked strange but it worked.

Granddad G.M. taught me how to dance the Cotton Eyed Joe.

*Trivia - mentioned Grandma grinding her coffee - she did it out of necessity, while today young people grind it out of choice.

Grandma was very particular about her coffee. She would drive to our house and draw water from the hand-dug well to fill her jugs to make her coffee. The water on the Pendleton place was pumped with a windmill from the Paluxy Strand, not very good for coffee.

Grandma had water in her house, one faucet in the kitchen, but no way to get it out. She had to carry it out by hand (the wastewater). There was also a faucet on the east porch.

Water was pumped from the windmill into a holding tank sitting on a wooden building about seven feet by seven feet over one door and one window to the south. There was a faucet and this is where the clothes were washed and baths were taken. The boiling pot set just outside. All clothes were boiled.

Soap was made in the pot the lard was rendered in. (Lard is the raw fat from a hog - it came from boiling the fat). Crackles with lye and water made soap. The pot had many uses. At hog killing it was most valuable. Boiling water was used to heat gunnysacks (burlap bags) to be put over the hog to loosen the hair.

Hog killing was a very special day. We were always there to help Grandma and Granddad G. W. Lard was rendered, sausage was ground. Some of it was fried and put into large crocks then covered with warm lard. This would keep the sausage all winter. Some of it was put into a casing made from the intestines of the hog. The intestines were turned inside out and scraped, washed, washed, and washed again. Then hung across a bar in the smokehouse.

Hams and bacon were salt cured or sugar cured. Sometimes it would be smoked by building a fire on the floor of the smoke house and letting it smoke overnight.

Chicken was a very important food source. Eggs and chicken provided food the year around. Nearly always you would have a hen setting on 10-12 eggs. The result was chicks. This was Grandma's job to build the nest of straw for the hen to set on. Hens set mostly in the warmer months.

She could have fried chicken nearly the year round. You haven't lived until you have wrung the neck of a chicken.

Milk was a very important food and Grandma had the very best; she also made great butter. There was no refrigeration so they used a water cooler. A water cooler was made of metal (probably aluminum) because it did not rust. It was about five feet high and four feet wide and about fifteen inches deep with four or five shelves. The top shelf was made into a trough about three inches deep. The bottom set in another trough about three inches deep about four inches above the legs. A water cloth was draped over it with an opening in front. Water was put in the top trough and the water would saturate the cloth and drain in the bottom trough that had an opening that would drain the water into a pan to be carried out.

Grandmother had her cooler sitting in the dining room where the breeze would keep the wet cloth cool. There was a breeze in her house from the front door to the back door. All outside doors had screens. This kept the milk cool. The milk was raw. The sweet milk we drank. In most cases the cream had been skimmed off to make butter.

Some of the milk was left to sour or clabber. It tasted very much like buttermilk. This was Granddad G.M.'s favorite.

Any leftover clabber milk would be made into cottage cheese.

By heating the milk to a boiling point the curds and whey would separate. When cool she would put it into a colander to drain.

We kids liked to put sugar and milk on curds and eat it as a dessert. Grandpa G.M. liked his with salt and pepper and ate it as a main dish.

There were food vendors who came: the Raleigh man and the Watkins man had great spices.

Then there was the grocery man that sold canned goods and staples. If you didn't have money he would take eggs or hens. Sometimes it was useful to get rid of a setting hen - you could have too many hens setting.

And then there were the antique dealers. They would take advantage of older people offering them new pieces to replace their old pieces. Grandma fell for this - that's why we have very few old pieces. They even took frames off pictures.

I'm not sure what year she got her telephone, but that was the greatest thing since the wheel. Grandma's telephone hung in the hall on the west wall as you entered (Big House).

It was an oak box with a speaker in front and a crank on the right side to ring. The box was made of stained oak.

Grandma's ring was one long and one short ring on line 13.

To call our house over 1 1/2 miles away she would ring one long ring which would get the operator in Cranfills Gap and ask them ring the Norse operator. The Norse operator would stay on the line and ring one long and two shorts - can't remember our line number. There were up to eight people on your line. In case of a death or emergency the operator would ring six long rings. All households would answer.

Granddad and Grandma went to the Gap (Cranfills Gap) every Saturday afternoon. That was the thing to do. Sometimes they would go with Dad and Mom and sometimes alone. This was a time to visit with your neighbors and also a time to sell your eggs, butter or cream, plus a time for Granddad George to buy his tobacco and Grandma flour, sugar and coffee.

When WWII broke out President Roosevelt began to ration foods, sugar being one of them. He also asked people to report to the government if they had any on hand. Guess what Grandma had - hundred of pounds of sugar. Every time she went to town she bought sugar, forgetting she had plenty. Dad suggested they had better report it to the president. Grandma said nooooo. She kept it in the "darkroom" - it was like a pantry - in the Big House. Grandma cooked nothing without a pinch of sugar.

Granddad G.M. was pretty talented. When an animal died or was butchered he would skin it, stretch it on the smokehouse north wall. When it was dry he would put new bottoms in all the chairs. Syrup was a main dish on the table. It would keep without refrigeration and was every healthful. Grandpa George decided he needed to make his own syrup.

He planted sugar cane, and I'm not sure how you decided when it was ready to harvest. But when the cane was about six feet tall, he decided the time was right.

He didn't believe in hiring labor so Dad, Opal, H.D., and myself made up the harvest crew.

He cut a one by four (one inch by four inch) board in 18 inch lengths and planed them down to look very much like a machete and that was very much how we used them. We would hold the top of the stick and knock off all the leaves. Then Dad came along and cut the stalks and pulled them all down by hand.

The piles of cane were put in a wagon and hauled to the neighbors (the McAdams) living on the north prong of Neils Creek, about 3 miles away.

You guessed it. The stalks were fed into the cylinder. The mule was hooked up to the machine and walked round and round turning the cylinder that crushed the juice out. The juice was then put into a tin trough five foot by four foot by three inches deep. A fire was made under the trough and the juice was continually stirred to keep it from burning. When it became the right consistency it was put in gallon buckets, thus molasses all winter.

There was always a wooden bucket with water hanging on the porch. One dipper was used by all.

Grandma kept her children close, as much as she could. Aunt Etta and Aunt Geneva lived about six miles from the Pendleton home toward Cranfills Gap. My dad lived on the Lund place about 1 ½ miles away. Uncle Willis had a place about two miles or less on the Boggy Turnersville Road. Uncle Cecil lived in the German settlement about six miles from her house. In 1921 there was still no open road to his house, and we drove through farms opening eleven gates to get to their house. The Trolls had wooden gates and whoopee - I got to open them.

Grandpa G.M. had, I thought, only eight children but some were not living. I met only six of them. They were very handsome people. Grandma had eight children and what is remarkable - all grew into adulthood. None had to serve in the war. All did not escape some mishap however. Along the way Aunt Etta and Uncle Rady both had scars on their hands from burns. Aunt Etta had some fingers badly burned. Uncle Cecil had a big toe missing trying to prove that the gun wasn't loaded. Dad had a thumb that would not work from holding a stick of wood while his brother was trying to split it. Real smart. Grandma was not so fortunate, although she did see all of her children grow to adulthood, she lost five of her children before she died: Etta, Rady, Willis, Geneva, and Dudley.

I do not want to close this without saying how important my grandmother's life was to me. She showed courage, strength and character.

To her eight children I am proud to be a part of:

Uncle Rady - I did not know you well but from your obituary I know you were loved by your family and community. I have known your children and some of your grandchildren. I have been proud to have known them all.

Aunt Etta - your great courage and strength was shown for you had many heartaches with the loss of so many children. You were a great leader in the Methodist Church. I know you blessed Grandma's heart. I was named after you.

Aunt Geneva - I didn't know you that well. I know you had a great talent as a seamstress and cook. You made Dorothy, Faye and myself red dresses, alike. I know you followed Grandma in her Methodist faith. You had a great sadness in the loss of your daughter, Gladys.

Uncle Willie - you had to have been a great man of faith and love. I have ridden horseback on your farm on the Turnersville Boggy road. I have seen your little house you built for you and your family. Thank you for being the great man that you were. (I rode on his place - on horseback - in 1931 and again in 1934.)

Dad - what can I say? You were so great in so many ways. You had so much love for your family and community. You felt such an obligation to your mother. I wish you had told us more about your father and grandfather. I know you were the oldest child when your father died. Did you promise him you would care for Grandma?

Uncle Cecil, and I'm going to include Aunt Emma, - you were the tops - you were so kind and good to my family when we were neighbors. I visited with you many times and know what a great love you shared with so many.

Uncle Otis - I did not know you well but no doubt you were a great friend to so many. I'm told you were the very best railroad conductor in Needles, California. Lots of fun.

Uncle Dudley - you and I hardly got to know each other at all but I have met your son Gene and his wife Carol and they are the best.

Grandma - you were very strong in the Methodist persuasion and I know you brought all your children to that persuasion. You had lots of company in the Boggy Community for most of your early neighbors were of that faith. And most were of English, Irish descent. The Germans lived to the West and the Norwegians to the East. It was not long until they began to intermarry. Great Americans all. You liked to keep your family close even in death. All your children but one are buried in the Boggy Cemetery, plus many of your grandchildren, too. You would be proud of your extended family. Many have stayed in the Methodist persuasion. Others have gone into other persuasions. Some are living in other states but all have a sense of pride in their family roots and Boggy Community.

I was at my grandmother's house when she died. My mother and father had moved in with her to take care of her. We were getting ready to go back the following day to our home in Needles, California. Mother came in about 11:00pm and said that Grandma was gone. This would have been funny if it hadn't been so sad. Edwin, my husband, while half asleep, sat up and said, "Now I wonder where she has gone."

We dressed and went into the room where she was. Grandpa G.W. was sitting there holding her hand and telling us she would be all right - she was just asleep. Finally he accepted the fact she was dead and began to say over and over again, "She was so pretty." He got up and put coins over her eyes and tied a scarf around head to keep it from resting on her chest.

Grandma was laid to rest in the Boggy Cemetery by Grandpa W.K. and many of her family members.

Granddad G.M. wanted to go back to Carlsbad, New Mexico where his first wife was buried and several of his children still lived.

He wrote a letter to my mother thanking her for taking care of he and Grandma. Also expressing his love for her and Aunt Emma.

Boggy Community will always be my first love. I went to school there. Dad and Mom both went to school there. Dad and his siblings first went to school located on the Rohne property called the Rohne school. Mom went to school on the Bakke farm called Shell Rock. Later they both went to school in the Boggy school. The first Boggy school joined the cemetery to the north.

Dad attended the Clifton Lutheran College for a time. Uncle Cecil attended the Methodist College in Meridian.

On December 9, 2007, fifty-two of your descendents gathered in the Civic Center in Clifton to honor your memory, the Pendleton heritage and their Boggy Community roots. You would have been proud - there were doctors, CEOs, schoolteachers, engineers, business people, fulltime service people, and me.

All are proud of their heritage and wanting to learn more - the reason for writing this.

Gene and Carol Pendleton, Uncle Dudley's son and daughter-in-law, have spent a lot of time putting together a life long history of the Pendletons.

All this you can read in detail at the Historical Collection Center in Meridian, Bosque County, Texas.

The Pendletons lived on the Boggy Branch from 1865 to 1946. Faye Wallace and myself still live in Bosque County (Clifton TX) - we are both in our nineties.

I told you Grandma always had good butter.

It took about 20-25 minutes to churn butter. She used an 18 inch high crock with a dowel with a cross attached. The lid had a hole to fit the dowel and with the up and down motion the sour cream would produce butter. With a wooden paddle she would work out the residue, thus butter and buttermilk.

Flour was purchased in 50 lb. flour sacks. These sacks were made into fancy cup towels. She emptied her flour in a big pull out drawer in her cabinet (picture attached). The sacks were precious and reused - they were hemmed and embroidered.

Biscuits were made in a round, wooden bowl - a pinch here and a dab there. Never could figure out her recipe. Baked in her wooden stove with no temperature gauge.

But boy were they good.

She worked the biscuit dough on a canvas cloth doubled (and rolled them out). When she finished she would fold the cloth and put it in the drawer with her flour, ready for the next meal.

Light bread was made in two settings. At night she would make up a dough of flour, water, and her homemade yeast. (I do not know her recipe for yeast, but I know it was made with cornmeal, sour milk, and a yeast cake from a previous yeast cake). The yeast cakes were two inches in diameter and she would make a couple dozen at a time.

The next morning she would add more water to the batter, flour, sugar, salt, and lard. This she would let rise again to about double in size. (Salt would kill the yeast at night.) She would work it again and put it into loafs, and sometimes rolls.

Ginger snaps was something she kept on hand at all times. Recipe - the best we could guess - sift 4 1/2 cups flour, one tablespoon soda, one tablespoon ginger, pinch salt. Cream 2/3 cup lard with 1/2 cup sugar, one egg beaten, one cup molasses. Mix and roll out to 1/4 inch thick and cut in squares. Bake in oven.

I do not remember her putting up a Christmas tree. I do not remember Christmas at her house. But she was in New Mexico 1921-1928.

The Little House was approximately 800 square feet or less. Outside was 1x12 inch boards with a four inch strip between the boards. It was never painted. One large room in center was approximately 18x20, two windows to the north and two to the south. The entrance was to the east. A flue in the west wall was used for the stove in the big room and also the kitchen stove. A room 10x20 on the west side of the big room which made up the kitchen and eating area. There were windows on the south and north wall. Outside door was to the west. No running water in the house.

On the northeast side was a small bedroom approximately 10x10 and a kind of closet. The outside door to south-east porch was also 10x10 in size. I can't remember a window at all in that room.

The inside of the house was finished a blue cardboard like paper tacked to the wall with one in. diameter washers. The inside boards ran crossing to the outside boards.

The Big House was probably 2000 square feet including porches. There were three rooms on the west side. The SW room was a large room with an outside door onto the porch. The middle room was also a large room that had a flue in the north side and a door into the kitchen - one went into the hall and one into the SW bedroom. The NW room was the kitchen that had a flue for the cook stove, a door from the middle room, and one into the dining area.

In the center of the house was a large hall and larger dining room. The hall had a double open door into the dining room on the north, a door into the parlor to the east and the outside doors onto the porch and the door to the middle and west rooms.

The dining room had an outside door on the north side that went onto a small porch and passage door on the east that led into a NE bedroom. The passageway was the "darkroom" where she hid her sugar.

There was another larger bedroom on the NE side with an outside door that led onto a porch - here was a faucet used for hand washing on the outside. There was also a door into the parlor. The parlor on the south east side was a little smaller. It had a flue and a door that led to the east porch and to the hall.

The house was papered throughout. The ceilings were beaded wood, painted. Also there was beaded wainscoting 38 inches high in the parlor and hall. The ceilings were white. The wainscoting was painted a deep maroonish/red - the upper wall was papered.

The front yard had a graveled walk to the front gate. There were two flowerbeds, 4x6 on each side of the walk. They were lined with blue bells. There was a cedar tree on each side, a hackberry tree in the southeast corner, three hackberries in the west side, and a peach tree in the back.

The smokehouse and the well house were in the backyard.

The yard had a fence all the way around about 4 feet tall and 3 decorated gates - all made of metal.

Narrative from William (Bill) Pendleton, son of Homer and Gina Pendleton

Grandpa George

Grandpa George was my grandmother's second husband. It was very confusing because he was a Pendleton also. He was a distant relative of my real grandpa, William K. Pendleton. I was probably half grown before I realized Grandpa George was not my real grandfather.

I always told my friends that there were sixteen kids in Grandma's family. She had eight children before William K died, when she married Grandpa George after his wife died (they had also had eight children). I only met two or three of his family as they lived in the Carlsbad, New Mexico area.

So until I was half grown I always thought Grandpa George was my real grandpa. He was a tough old character, before he moved to Texas (Bosque County), he lived in the Carlsbad area. When we visited Grandma and Grandpa George on Sunday, he would light up his Sunday pipe and tell me stories about his younger days. Generally, my cousin R.C. was also there. First he would tell my cousin and me that when he died he wanted us to bury him in an oak thicket about a half of a mile from the house. That was bad enough for two young boys, but he always added that we should bury him deep enough so that varmints wouldn't dig him up.

He would tell us stories about the Wild West. He knew Pat Garrett, a famous lawman from Carlsbad. Grandpa sold broncos to Buffalo Bill Cody's Wild West show. He knew Billy the Kid, the famous outlaw, and Jim White, the man who was first to explore Carlsbad Caverns. Jim White had asked him to go with him on his first trip, but he refused. I did later meet Jim White's widow on a trip to Carlsbad. She confirmed that she knew Grandpa George.

I could never verify that he knew the others.

Grandpa George was one of the first to acquire a wind charger. It was a simple propeller that charged a battery when the wind blew. The battery would create enough power to play a radio and one light bulb. He did not want to use the light bulb much so he would always have enough power to play his radio. He would listen to the news about the war in Europe. This must have been the late 1930s when Hitler was invading countries surrounding Germany. His solution was to give Hitler and Stalin a knife, put them in a dark room, and hope neither came out.

It was also in this time frame that Joe Louis was the World Champion in boxing. I don't know how I knew because we had no radio or newspapers but I somehow knew Joe Louis was fighting Braddock. I knew not only the date but the time, so I saddled up old Snip and rode four or five miles from the land where we lived to the Pendleton farm where Grandpa George lived. I tied up Snip, went into the house, Grandpa George turned on the radio, the fight started and Joe Louis knocked out Braddock in the first two minutes of the first round.

As a result of selling broncos to Buffalo Bill, Granddad had been thrown many times and had broken his right leg several times. Because of this he walked with a limp and most of the time carried a cane. Until I was in my teens he always had a horse to ride and would round up the cows, ride the fences, etc. One thing I remember quite well as a result of his right leg he could not straddle his horse. He always rode with his right leg around the saddle horn having only one foot (his left) in a stirrup. Can you imagine penning cattle with a bulldog (named Bojo) with only one foot in the stirrup? In his saddle he always carried a sawed off shot gun, this was to shoot dogs that he came across, because if they were in his pastures they were up to no good. In addition to the shotgun he also had a bullwhip, to help pen the cows. So imagine shooting a gun or cracking a whip while on a horse with only one foot in the stirrup.

Rada Klein "Rady" Pendleton, first child of W. K. and Fannie

Rady was born August 9, 1878, in Hamilton County, Texas, to William K. and Frances Pendleton. He was the first of eight children. Rady spent his childhood and youth in the Bosque community of Cranfills Gap where his father and mother established a farm in the Boggy area, near the surviving cemetery of the same name (and Rady's final resting place), to support their growing family.

Rady married Mary Elizabeth "Bettie" Votaw of Hamilton County, Texas, on July 4, 1906. Their marriage produced seven children, the youngest of whom died soon after birth in 1922 and is buried in Pyron Cemetery.

The most revealing information we have about Rady is found in surviving letters he wrote to Bettie between 1905 and 1920 when he would be working away from home. His writings show him to have been a kind, considerate, thoughtful and loving family man. He repeatedly refers to his mate, his children and other family members and their activities in the letters.

Some years after their marriage (estimated between 1910 and 1918) Rady and Bettie moved from Bosque County to West Texas where they lived in several small towns in Runnels and Scurry Counties. Rady managed a cotton gin in Inadale, Scurry County, Texas, for many years. He and his older sons also grew cotton sometimes.

Their youngest child, Sibyll, (b. 3-7-1919, Wingate, Runnels County, TX.) related memories of her early years living in small west Texas communities were that her family must have been what we now consider poor, financially. None of the Pendleton children realized it though because they had a loving family and all the neighbors were in similar situations. Everyone was happy from the perspective of a child's memory. For example, she said a great treat was to simply get fresh oranges, sometimes a whole crate, during Christmas holidays.

Rady's Inadale job ended in 1932, in the midst of a depression, the year FDR was first elected. Sibyll, 13, was still at home. The other Pendleton offspring were out on their own. Roy and Cecil would soon join the Military, considered an excellent job at a time when jobs were seriously scarce. Dewey, Rex, and Lucille were working in other parts of Texas. Rady was fortunate enough to get a similar cotton gin job in nearby Sweetwater, Nolan County, Texas.

Summer, 1932, a "going away party" was held for the Pendletons by their friends in Inadale. Rady was quoted as saying after the party that he felt like he had just attended his own funeral. Those words would become sadly prophetic within a few weeks.

Rady Pendleton passed away September 9, 1932, in Sweetwater, Texas. The day of his passing, Rady arrived home at midday from his new job in Sweetwater, Texas. He was not feeling well. He lay down with Bettie seated beside him and within a short time passed from this world, a victim of heart failure.

Bettie and Sibyll, who had just started high school in Sweetwater, were devastated. Bettie's father, Thomas Votaw, also had passed away earlier in 1932.

A funeral service was conducted in Sweetwater the next day, Saturday, September 10, 1932, for Rady's west Texas people after which he was taken home to Bosque County where a second service was held at his interment at Boggy Cemetery the following week.

Rady apparently was a man who made and kept friends for a lifetime. One obituary writer said that over a thousand people attended his (Bosque) funeral. Among them were his friends and family members from many Texas towns as well as members from several Odd Fellow Lodges in the Bosque County area. Rady had been a long-time member of that lodge. His death was so unexpected that two Pendleton sons could not be located before Rady's burial. They were away working or searching for work at a time when communications media were sparse, particularly in large rural areas.

Dudley G. Pendleton, 8th child of W. K. and Fannie Pendleton

Dudley G. Pendleton, the eighth and last child born to William K. and Fannie (Scoggin) Pendleton, was born October 29, 1903, on the Pendleton farm in the Boggy Community of Bosque County, Texas. Dudley's wife Bea told us that Dudley's name included "Wooten" after the G. and that he did not like it, so he dropped the "Wooten" from his name. The initial "G" did not stand for a name. Carol was reading a Texas history book where the name of Dudley G. Wooten was listed in the Bibliography as an editor of A Comprehensive History of Texas, 1898. Maybe he was named after this person.

He grew up and went to school in the Boggy Community. We have no stories of his childhood. He was almost six and half years old when his father died. We believe he had the eighth grade education of those days at the local Boggy School. We are unaware if he continued his education.

Dudley learned to cut hair and do barbering from Bernt Bertelson, the local barber at Cranfills Gap. Bernt had a barbershop on the main business street (the only business street) and Dudley worked there as a young man.

His brother Otis, who was almost 7 years older, was very close to him and his family. Otis had worked for the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe railroad as a brakeman out of Seligman, Arizona. Otis helped Dudley get a job for ATSF railroad in Seligman. He started out as a "call boy" whose job was to go to the houses of the train crews to notify them of the time they were expected to report for work. The train hours varied and a callboy was vital so the crew could be ready to switch crews at the arrival of the train. He later became a ticket agent at the Seligman depot. Otis later became a conductor on the Needles to Los Angeles route.

Dudley had dated and fell in love with a pretty brown haired blue-eyed Danish Norwegian girl, Beatrice Bertelson, who grew up in Cranfills Gap and was the youngest sister of Bernt Bertelson, the barber there. Dudley was working in Seligman when Bea left her home in the Gap and came by train to Arizona to marry him. Bea's father, Bertel, told her that he wanted to see her marriage license dated the same day she arrived in Arizona. She arrived on Sunday, Feb. 14, 1923, in Kingman Arizona, and kept her promise to her father. They found the local judge at home and requested to be married. Otis' wife, Pearl Pendleton, was one of the witnesses. They began their married life in Seligman and we were told that they lived in practically every house in Seligman that was available to rent. Bea had to starch and iron Dudley's white shirts and collars for his job and with no wrinkles. She played the music for the silent movies at the local movie theatre in Seligman.

Dudley worked at the local barbershop on his days off. He loved playing baseball and was the pitcher on the local Seligman team in the Arizona league. They drove in an Essex Roadster to all the baseball games in Kingman, Jerome, Williams, Flagstaff, Scottsdale, and Prescott, Arizona. That must have been quite a trek traveling on those gravel dirt roads for long distances. The baseball diamond for Jerome was on top of a steep hill with the community Jerome located on the side of the hill or mountain to others (the road had many switchbacks). Those on the team included his brother Otis Pendleton, W. C. Dowdy, Ray Rupe and Vernie Bert whose father was the manager. Their first child, a daughter named Geraldine Gloria, was born in Seligman on Jan. 11, 1926. Dudley nicknamed her "Sissy" and when she grew up she was known as Gerry.

In 1929, they moved to Barstow where Dudley continued working for ATSF railroad as a ticket agent at the train depot. Barstow did not have a baseball team so Dudley played on the Barstow High School team. He was the only one not in high school and the only married man on the team. The Veterans of Foreign Wars of Barstow sponsored the team. Their second child, a son named Ray Allen, was born in Barstow on Feb. 3, 1932. On Saturday nights, Dudley and Bea entertained at the local dances providing music along with other musicians. Bea played the piano and Dudley played the guitar, banjo, or fiddle, and they sang the songs in harmony. A Bertelson cousin said it was delightful to hear Dudley and Bea sing as they were great at harmonizing together.

We are not sure where they lived after Dudley was laid off from the railroad. We know that sometime in the 1930s, Bea was very ill and was hospitalized having come down with the San Juan Valley fever, and that her niece Belle Swenson was there to help the family. They were living in Shafter, California, where Dudley worked as a salesman for a car dealer. They were thrilled and were looking forward to the birth of their third child when tragedy struck the family. Dudley was a passenger in a car accident on the notorious and dangerous "Grapevine" highway connecting Bakersfield to Los Angeles. He was taken to the hospital in Bakersfield where he died from injuries of a broken neck on Jan. 11, 1939, his daughter's 13th birthday. At his funeral in Bakersfield, there were many Scoggin relatives who attended and were related to Grandmother Fannie's older brother. Another funeral took place in Texas and he was laid to rest at the Boggy Cemetery near the home where he was raised. Just two months before his death, his mother had sent him a birthday calling him her "darling boy".

He never knew his son who was born 4 months later on May 31, 1939. Bea named him Dudley after his father, knowing Dudley hated that name and did not want a son named after him. Since Dudley did not have a middle name but just the initial "G", his son was given the middle name of Gene after his cousin Donald Gene, Uncle Otis' son. His son uses the middle name of Gene, and is known by his middle name. Dudley never knew about another tragedy striking the family 10 years later. His son Ray was diving in the shallow end of the Needles High School swimming pool that he had done many times before. This time, he broke his neck and lived two weeks after the accident. Ray was 17 years old and a strong faithful believer in the Triune God at the time of his death. As he was dying, he said "Grandma". The family believes he must have seen Grandmother Fannie because she was the only grandmother that he had known. He is buried at the Mt. View Cemetery in San Bernardino, California. Uncle Otis and Aunt Pearl Pendleton, Beatrice and Gerry Pendleton are also buried there.

Gene does not know much about his father. He only remembers bits and pieces of what his mother and others have told him. His sister Gerry never talked much about her father without tears filling her eyes.

His obituary -- newspaper unknown -- date printed unknown:

Letters from G. W. to his brother, Louis

Bosque County, Texas

April 1, 1867

Dear Brother and Sister,

Your letter dated February 25, has been received and I am seated to reply. We are all in common health. My children are off at school and I am quite lonesome. As I cannot enjoy your company I have concluded to write you one more letter. You wanted to know if people are not apt to be sick the first year in climating, if they do not expose themselves in traveling. As to Western Texas I can insure you is healthy. I have not called in a doctor twist in five year and one of them times was when my wife was confined. My doctor's bill for five year is $17.00. My family has averaged 7 for five year. I consider western Texas much more healthy than any part of Tennessee. The largest doctor bill we have are graney fees.

In regard to muskatoes, we have no such thing. There are some on Trinity River which runs threw the state, divides East and Western Texas. Well, Lewis, you give the price of stock. I would like to know how Greenback rates. We don't have much paper money in circulation in Texas. Our currency are gold and silver. It is difficult to get a nuff greenback to pay tax. Though greenback are worth 75 cts. in the dollar. I am in the notion of taking a drove of horces East this spring. I started a letter a few days ago to Mace to see if he will go with me. If he will go you may look for us this summer. I have about fifty head of horces mostly mars. They are worth nothing here. And I think the present movement of the government our tax will be very high. It seems that we have to support a standing army in the South. We certainly have the most corrupt government on earth and I think it will be bound to have a purge. Texas and Louisiana are throwed together, governed by one General. He is to have power over the governor and all laws. We are under military power, this is approaching monarchy very strong. I suppose this is done to give the Negro equal rights. I think every man in the South ought to kill his negro and get rid of them. The next thing will be confiscation of the land to give them a home. I want to sell all I have and sink it so deep that Taxation will never find it. You rote that the people was divided in Tennessee. There is a few radicals here they was mostly hung during the war. I am not a sesession I am for the old Constitution as it was. I was opposed to sesession and abolition. We are now for the president but we have not got much faith in him. We believe that he will circumb. We have but one friend on whom to rely, and that is the Creator of all things, the Judge of all the earth will do right. We are in a poor fix yet the poor has a promise, when the poor and needy seek water and there is none and ther tongs faileth for thirst I the Lord will hear them. I the God of Israel will not forsake them. In regard to me being a Methodist that was a mistake if it was rote, there never was any methodist about me. I never bowed to the four-legged magesty or worshipt the beast. I still remain firm in the faith or cause that I imbraced in the year 45 at Alexandria and I am a critical Bible schollar. My Bible teaches me the best Jewel we have on earth is to act out the christian character, is also the ornament of society. As to my peculiar views on future punishment, I have not forsaken the teachings of my Bible. It is research of many years hard study I have also summoned the best critics in the orthodox rank and they only have confirm me. A man can't believe just what he pleases it must be predicated on divine testimony. I once believed that the Lord was only good to a part of mankind, I now believe that he is good to all and His tender mercies are over all His people. That where sin abounds grace much more abounds. The Bible says nowhere that God will dam him for having a good opinion of him.

I am not aiming to draw you out but merely to show you where I stand - I have Alexander Hall, Universalist, against itself - and Power against Universalist, and other eminent writers and debates. I don't think I have underwent any change on the teaching of the Bible, so enough on that subject.

Well, Lewis, you wanted to know the best rout by water. The rout by water is by the way of Orleans across the Bay at Galveston, there you will find a rail rode to Houston and on to Miligan and than a stage runs from Miligan to Waco in 35 miles of me and 30 miles of Jack, then inquire for Neels Creek, Bosque County. I live in six miles of the head of Nell's Creek. Jack lives near Peorie, Hill County. Mace lives near Johnson Station, Tarrants County.

We have had a very warm pleasant winter but March has been cold throwout we had a snow four inches deep in March and several freezes. This is the most backward season I have ever seen in Texas. We generally plant corn in February but the corn is not all planted yet. Our wheet has been kept back by the cold but I think wheet will be good. A wheet pasture here is as good as corn. We keep fat stock on wheet pasture, it don't injure the wheet to pasture, only makes it better and heavy. You wanted to know if it was not very hot. We have no hot sultry weather like you do. There is always a breezes from the Gulf or South which make it pleasant. There is scarcely a knight but what we need cover. We have the most pleasant sleeping you could immagion. Now in eastern Texas where there is timber it is more hot and sultry, it is also more sickly, more subject to chills and fever. I lived there 10 year and had chills but since I lived in western Texas I have had no chills. I have children almost grown that never taken a dost of medicine.

Well, Lewis, you discribed the kind of place that you wanted. I think you can find it in Texas though it is hard to find all the good things together. I lack too things where I live. I have the health, good water, and good land and good grass for my stock, but timber are scarce for fencing. We have wood plenty, and society are not as good as I could wish. We are not settled thick enough for a large school. Though we have a very honerable community with a good deal of enterprise. I think such a community are susceptible of improving. I differ in regard to what it takes to constitute good society. I differ with some men. I think we have a great deal of idoletry and great eal worship the beast and call it good society.

Well, one more item and I will close. I want you to ascertain whether or not there are any shops where spinning mashines are made in that country. I want a set of cards, I have a good mashine with the exception of cards. I want you to try to procure me a set. The price ust to be dollars. If you don't come and can send them to any part of the state do so, I will pay you well for the cards and trouble.

I will come to a close by signing myself

Your brother G. W. Pendleton

(On margin of letter he wrote) I would have finished my letter but the paper give out. I still urge you to come and look before you move.

My wife sends her respects, to you all and says that she would like very much to see you. Tell Lizza, Ya Ma Ann is not at home but she will not forget her. I want you to write often. If I start my horses we will let you know. We will come by way of Alabama. Write what Greenback is worth.

Note: Mrs. Joe Pendleton typed the letter with all the spelling errors. I do not know who is Joe Pendleton or the year this was typed from the original hand written letter. Carol Pendleton

Winfield, Cowly County, Kansas

Dear brother and sister and friends,

After my respects I can inform you that we are well. I am now in Kansas at I. H. Sorey, a brother to my wife, he is her only brother. They have not seen each other for 24 year. Our visit has been quite a pleasant one. It is about 600 miles from home and we made the trip in a little over day and night - our first ride on a R.R. Crops were good in Texas and are very good here. It is thought by some that wheet in Kansas will make an average of 35 bushels per acre. There is but little timber here, it would supprise you how well they can do without any wood. Fruit of all kinds seem to do well. I am very well pleased with the country.

Well, I have not got my pension yet they require a great eal proof. I have to prove that I was a sound man when entered the service and have been unable to perform manual labor ever since. They require proof of my lawalty to the union so you see that I have a good eal of work on hand. I want you to see James Boon and Robert Barry put Barry and see if I can't get some proof of being to some extent crippled of course you know the fact but proof from a relative not worth much. If you can get any proof there that will be of any service I will send you some blanks to be filled. I think I can make all the necessary proof since I come to Texas but I want a full proof to cover ever year. There was too year after I come out of the war before I got to Texas. William Terry came to Arkansas with us. Is he in that country. We lived in Arkansas near oney-ear. 1858 and 59 are the years I want proof on. Give my respects to all relation and friends. I hope to be able to see you before a great while.

Write to me shortly. I think you are behind time a writing. Farewell for this time. I will send my love to all.

Your brother,

G. W. Pendleton

P. S. I will start home next Monday. Write to Norway Hill, Bosque County, Texas.

Dear brother and Sister,

After my respects i can inform you that we are all well, hoping that you may be able to communicate the same blessing. I have not got much of great importance to write. We have generally very good crops. We are done harvesting. I have cut with a reaper on my place near 70 acres of wheet, oats, and millet - Some tolerable good, and some very sorry, a great eal wheet froze out in the winter hence we planted the ground in oats millet-corn is in making now and will be good with one rain. Our grass and range very good everything fat. Well, I have done a hard years work. I have run near 140 acres myself. I have done all my plowing a riding. One man with improved mashinery can do the work of three on the old plan. I have been sending the boys to school until harvest - they are now at home but will now shortly return to school. I ame to move in part to a school at Jonesborough. We ame to separate - my old woman and boys will run the school and I will run the farm. W. K. Pendleton will live with me next year and help run my farm.

Well, I have quit fretting about religion or politics - I became satisfied to let the god of nature rule. I found myself hear in existense—I expect to do all the good I can - when I cross the river and change in an oth mode I will then take my chances. As to going crazy and making preparation about the other world I have no knight mars to hant me. I believe that I am injoying life better than I did when I spent a great eal of time in reading and meditating so much on that subject.

Well, I have not hear from our kinfolks in some time, I want to go out to see them this summer if the Lord permit. Well, I have a little hope of getting my pension. Dudly the Commissioner had me examined by a board of doctors last May. They decided that I was not able to walk and do manual labor.

Well, it has been a long time since I heard from you. I want you to write and give all the news. Direct your letter to Jonesborough, Coryell County,

Your brother as ever,
